What are the ISA Awards of Distinction?

The ISA Awards of Distinction are recognized as the highest honors bestowed by ISA. Award recipients are selected from nominations submitted by members and industry professionals and are recognized for lifetime achievements, arboricultural education and research, bodies of work, and contributions to practical arboriculture or to ISA. Nominations are reviewed by the Awards Committee which recommends selections for each award category. The recipients are approved by the ISA Board of Directors and announced at the ISA Annual International Conference. A brief description of each award is available on the nomination form and on the ISA website (<http://www.isa-arbor.com/events/awardsprograms/internationalawards.aspx>).
